Number 2012/02

Changes to administering low value end-use Securities

Background

Australian Customs and Border Protection Service (Customs and Border Protection) detailed advice to industry within ACCA Number 2012/01 regarding the risk based approach to administering securities effective from 27 February 2012.

Combined with that approach will also be how the Integrated Cargo System (ICS) treats low value end-use securities. Low value is regarded as those lines on a full import declaration (FID) whose end-use security liability is less than $100 revenue liability (duty and GST combined).

Changes to low value end-use securities

Previously a security identifier was not required for low value end-use securities processing in the ICS. The ICS now requires all such FIDs when submitted, without a security identifier supplied, that the new declaration lodgement question is to be answered (as referred to in ACCA Number 2012/01).
